

ALL "telemarketing" calls are annoying including those from TV and Radio Stations. I think our government should understand and support it's citizens desire to have their homes be a place where they can get away from the bombardment of advertising if they so choose. The recent popularity of the Do Not Call lists is a resounding affirmation of the desire of most American to eliminate phone calls for sales, advertising, surveys, providing information, campaigning, etc.

Please consider the will of the people, not just the will of the lobbyists.
